A quarry-tiled pathway leads to the covered entrance and original stained-glass front door, which opens into a welcoming entrance vestibule with a mosaic tiled floor and inner entrance hall.

At the front of the house is a generous bay-fronted sitting room, featuring an original attractive tiled fireplace with wooden surround. Positioned centrally is the dining room, complete with fitted dresser and storage, while French doors open onto the rear garden which also has gated rear access that runs alongside number 6. An archway leads through to the kitchen, which lends itself to modernising.

To the rear is a further reception room, enjoying glazed doors flanked by sash windows overlooking and providing access to the west facing patio garden. An original tiled fireplace is complemented by a pair of attractive stained glass leaded light windows, adding further period character.

Stairs rise from the entrance hall to the first-floor landing, where access is provided to an extensive loft space. This offers excellent potential to create additional accommodation, subject to the necessary consents.

The first floor comprises four bedrooms, a family bathroom/WC with separate shower, and a separate cloakroom.

The property is offered for sale with no onward chain and requires modernisation and updating. This presents an exciting opportunity for a new owner to create a wonderful home, while retaining and enhancing the property's original character and period features.
